President's MESSAGE

Dear CABA Members:

The 2024 Election Cycle is upon us all. This period of time is when we gather, not just as individuals, but as a collective of informed citizens, committed to the foundational principles of our democracy. The integrity of our elections and the qualifications of those who seek to serve as judges are of paramount importance. It is our duty to scrutinize, to question, and to understand the values and the vision of each candidate, and importantly the candidates for our judiciary. CABA remains committed to promoting informed decision making for its members and the community.

It is with this commitment that CABA continues its tradition of hosting an annual Judicial Forum and Luncheon and publishing the Judicial edition of Briefs. The 2024 Judicial Forum and Luncheon provides us the opportunity to hear from each of the judicial candidates seeking your vote in the upcoming elections. This year we are also including in the Forum the candidates for the Clerk of the Court and Comptroller for Miami-Dade County. Lastly, we have invited the judicial candidates elected without opposition who will be new to the bench. This will be an incredible opportunity for us to hear from the future of Miami-Dade's judiciary and court system.

CABA is also publishing this 2024 Judicial Briefs. As in years past, the Judicial Briefs is the CABA publication dedicated to its Judicial Luncheon and Forum. The 2024 Judicial Briefs is unique as it is where CABA publishes the results of its Judicial Poll. This Poll is compiled from anonymous responses received from CABA's membership about the current Judicial Candidates as well as incumbent judges. The Poll asked CABA members to rate judicial candidates on the qualifications to be a judge, their character, and their treatment of Hispanics and others who could appear before them on the bench. Current judges include the additional rating categories which cover their duties and responsibilities as a judge. The CABA Judicial Poll seeks to provide its members and the community meaningful insight of our judiciary and those seeking judicial office.

In closing, I urge you to engage with the candidates and incumbents. Let us remember that the decisions they may one day make will affect the lives of many. Many in our community will turn to each of us as lawyers seeking our opinions on who to vote for in the upcoming elections. Let us approach this task with the seriousness it deserves, and let us do so with the confidence that comes from being informed and engaged members of the Florida Bar and CABA, and citizens of these United States.

Sincerely,

Javier A. Ley-Soto
CABA 2024 President

Editor-In-Chief's
MESSAGE

Dear CABA Members:

It is a great privilege to present this Special Edition of CABA Briefs. With the upcoming judicial elections, our intent is to help our members become familiar with some of South Florida's judicial candidates. These esteemed individuals shape the legal landscape and improve our communities. As one of the pillars of democracy and to maintain public trust in the judiciary, these local judicial elections deserve the utmost respect and attention. These esteemed individuals shape the legal landscape.

This Special Issue includes an article by well-respected and long-time CABA supporter Judge Michael C. Baggé-Hernández of Hillsborough County Court and Elisabell Laura Velázquez J.D. Candidate at Stetson University College of Law. The article examens the landmark case, Conage v. United States, 346 So.3d 594 (Fla. 2022). We are excited at the opportunity to work with Judge Baggé-Hernández and Ms. Velázquez on this edition, and hope to continue to publishing thoughtful and thought provoking articles by our members.

Additionally, consistent with CABA's mission to foster respect for the law and facilitate the administration of justice, this Special Edition summarizes the results of CABA's Judicial Poll. The Judicial Poll is designed to educate our members on the qualifications of judicial candidates. Thank you to all that contributed and continue the commitment to civic participation. We hope this information will lead to engagement with the local judiciary and informed decisions this November.

I appreciate the support shown by our members and community who have contributed to this edition and look forward to working with you on our next edition.

Sincerely,

Emily K. Balter
Editor-in-Chief

THANK YOU CABA FOR STANDING WITH ISRAEL & THE JEWISH PEOPLE

JUST AS YOU HAVE STOOD WITH US, WE STAND WITH YOU!

The American Jewish Committee (AJC) extends our deepest gratitude to the Cuban American Bar Association (CABA) for your October 12, 2023, statement calling for the unequivocal condemnation of the terrorist attacks in Israel by Hamas on October 7th and for CABA's commitment in promoting justice, tolerance, and respect for human rights.

The Cuban and Jewish communities share a history of resilience in the face of oppression and a steadfast dedication to freedom and democracy. CABA's swift condemnation of these acts and your call for international action underscore the importance of standing united against terrorism.

THANK YOU, Giselle Gutierrez, Miriam Soler Ramos, Javier A. Ley-Soto, Amanda Fernandez, Jordi Martinez-Cid, Haydee S. Sera, as well as CABA Directors: Amanda Demanda, Augusto Perera, Candice Balmori, Daniel Buigas, Diana Arteaga, Emily Balter, Gustavo J. Ceballos, Patrick Montoya, and to the entire CABA membership for your moral leadership and support.

KEEP JUDGE CHRISTOPHER GREEN

FOR MIAMI-DADE COUNTY COURT JUDGE

ELECTION DAY: TUESDAY, AUGUST 20, 2024

MEET Judge Green

✅ Experienced Legal Background

Judge Christopher Green, currently presiding over civil cases at South Dade Justice Center, brings substantial experience as a Senior Assistant City Attorney and Division Chief for litigation in Miami, where he supervised a team of trial and appellate lawyers.

✅ Specialized Expertise in Civil Law

Certified as a specialist in civil trial law by the Florida Bar in 2010, Judge Green's credentials are backed by extensive jury trial experience and a rigorous certification process, setting him apart as part of an elite group where less than 7% of Florida Bar members achieve this distinction.

✅ Recognized Leadership and Service

In 2021, Judge Green was honored by the Florida Bar for his meritorious service to the public and legal profession for his role as Chair of a Florida Bar Grievance Committee.

✅ Dedicated Early Career to Public Defense

Starting his career at the Miami-Dade County Public Defender's Office, Judge Green defended a wide array of cases, from misdemeanors to first-degree felonies, demonstrating a deep commitment to justice and legal representation for all.

✅ Local Roots

Judge Green has called Miami home for more than 50 years and is a graduate of Christopher Columbus High School. He grew up in Miami and maintains strong community ties. He and his wife Elizabeth are the proud parents of four sons and have three grandchildren. Three of his four sons graduated from public high schools and earned their Eagle Scout rank in the Boy Scouts. His youngest son who is on the autism spectrum attends a public school dedicated to students with special needs.

Donde Crece la Palma, Florecen los cánones de interpretación de la ley: Conage v. United States and Florida's Use of the Canons of Statutory Construction

By: Judge Michael C. Baggé-Hernández and Elisabell Laura Velázquez

José Martí, the great Cuban poet, once wrote, "Liberty is the right of every man to be honest." ("La libertad es el derecho que tiene todo hombre a ser honesto.") The canons of statutory construction in American jurisprudence echo similar sentiments, as they serve as the intellectual underpinning for interpreting the law in a manner consistent with the statutory text. Conage v. United States, 346 So.3d 594 (Fla. 2022), introduces a paradigm shift that revitalizes these canons and sets a precedent for future jurisprudence. This article examines this landmark case, contextualizing it through textualism, Martí's "Versos Sencillos," and the canons of statutory construction.

I. Conage: The Jurisprudential Revolution

The Conage decision has detonated the shackles of a century-old paradigm by allowing the judiciary unprecedented latitude in interpreting statutes. In Conage, the Court was tasked with interpreting the very definition of "purchase" with respect to Florida drug trafficking laws. By doing so, the Court made a bold move in discarding the long-standing "Holly principle," which advocated for minimal judicial interpretation when statutory language appears "clear and unambiguous." Id. at 598. Instead, the Court championed a more dynamic approach, suggesting that judges must consider "textual and structural clues" throughout the statute. Id. This intellectual pivot set the stage for a nuanced three-layered scrutiny of the term "purchase," turning each word and phrase into a clue in a grand legal puzzle. Id.

The Court's groundbreaking ruling elegantly harmonized the terms "purchase" and "sale," aligned them within the broader statutory context, and thus breathed new life into the art of statutory interpretation. Id. at 601-603. Far from a dry exercise, this holding serves as a compelling masterclass in legal interpretation. The ruling serves as a harbinger of potential shifts in legal paradigms across various jurisdictions within the United States.

II. Historical Precedents: The Constrained Judiciary

To appreciate the significance of Conage, one must understand the historical limitations imposed on the judiciary's interpretative latitude. Florida courts have rigorously adhered to a restraint-based paradigm since the early 20th century, as exemplified in Holly v. Auld, 450 So. 2d 217, 219 (Fla. 1984), and A.R. Douglass, Inc. v. McRainey, 137 So. 157, 159 (Fla. 1931). This paradigm has historically emphasized reserving the application of canons to instances where the statutory language was patently ambiguous. Subsequent case law, such as Ross v. Gore, 48 So. 2d 412, 415 (Fla. 1950), and American Bankers Life Assurance Co. of Florida v. Williams, 212 So. 2d 777, 778 (Fla. 1st DCA 1968), further ossified this approach, rendering it axiomatic within Florida courts.

III. The Difficulties with the Holly Approach:

From a textualist standpoint, waiting to deploy the canons of statutory construction until after a statute is deemed unambiguous undermines the very essence of textualism, which focuses on the objective interpretation of the statutory text based on its plain language at the time the statute was enacted. See Antonin Scalia & Bryan A. Garner, Reading Law: The Interpretation of Legal Texts § 6, at 69 (2012). Deploying these canons only after declaring a statute "unambiguous" presumes that the interpreter can conclusively discern ambiguity or clarity within the statute's text. This approach invites the dangers of judicial subjectivity and inconsistency, as judges may vary in their intuition for what constitutes an "unambiguous" text.

Moreover, treating the canons as a secondary tool risks marginalizing their essential function in bringing coherence, consistency, and stability to statutory interpretation. Canons like "ejusdem generis" or "noscitur a sociis" help illuminate the text's context, offering essential clues as to whether a statute is genuinely ambiguous. See Conage, 346 So. 3d at 598. They exist not merely to resolve ambiguities but to identify them in the first place. See id. By only invoking them after a determination of ambiguity, the interpreter sidesteps a rigorous, systematic analysis and thereby risks missing the statute's true meaning, which is precisely the danger the Conage Court sought to remedy. See id. Therefore, from a textualist perspective, canons of construction should be applied in the initial stages of statutory interpretation to assess whether a law is ambiguous rather than being reserved for later stages. See id.

IV. Conage and Martí: Paths to Interpretive and Cultural Freedom

Conage liberated Florida courts from the Holly approach by offering interpretative freedom, parallel to Martí's call for cultural and political self-determination. The "Versos Sencillos" poem implicitly critiques any system that curtails the potential for nuanced understanding. His words offer a lens through which we might critique an overly restrictive approach to statutory construction: "I know how to name and class All the strange flowers that grow; I know every blade of grass, Fatal lie, and sublime woe." ("Yo sé los nombres extraños De las yerbas y las flores, Y de mortales engaños, Y de sublimes dolores".) Martí was acutely aware of life's complexities, just as Conage makes room for complexity by freeing judges from the restraints of a century-old paradigm.

The ruling in Conage allows for a nuanced approach, advocating for a broad understanding that comprises textual and structural clues and extends to contextual elements. It can be said that this case brings into the American legal system a method that resonates with Martí's concept of freedom and the liberty to construct meanings that are alive, dynamic, and sensitive to human complexities. As Martí wrote, "I have seen wings that were surging From beautiful women's shoulders, And seen butterflies emerging From the refuse heap that moulders." ("Alas nacer vi en los hombros De las mujeres hermosas: Y salir de los escombros, Volando las mariposas".) Martí speaks of transformation, emerging from ruins as free entities. Conage, in its revolutionary approach to interpretation, too, offers a form of freedom—to law and, perhaps, to the people it serves.

V. Conclusion: Textualism, Conage, and Martí's Vision

Conage v. United States is not just a legal turning point, but a philosophical and cultural one. It nods to a form of expansive interpretation, much like the Cuban-American community that has been both a part of and apart from the narratives of both Cuba and the United States. Just as Martí's "Versos Sencillos" offers layered meanings about freedom and human dignity, Conage provides the judiciary with a tool for complex, legal interpretations. This ruling thus serves as a fulcrum on which the scales of American jurisprudence may well be rebalanced, aligning with a Cuban-American ethos deeply influenced by Martí's permanent ink.

Elisabell Laura Velázquez is a second-year law student at Stetson University College of Law. Elisabell is the Founder and President of CABA at Stetson Law and is also a member of the Stetson Law Dispute Resolution Board, Associate Editor for the Stetson Journal of Aging Law & Policy, Secretary of the Stetson Law Anti-Trafficking Coalition, Social Media Chair for the Florida Association for Women Lawyers at Stetson, and serves on the Networking Committee of the Entertainment & Sports Law Society at Stetson Law.

Michael   C.   Baggé-Hernández serves as a County Court Judge in the Hillsborough County Court located in Hillsborough County, Florida. He was appointed by Gov. Ron DeSantis in 2019 and was elected without opposition in 2022. Prior to taking the bench, Judge Baggé-Hernández served for ten years as an Assistant United States Attorney, five years in the District of Puerto Rico and five years in the Middle District of Florida. During his tenure at the United States Attorney's Office, he prosecuted various cases, including transnational organized crime, high-seas crimes, narcotics crime, crimes related to the Immigration and Naturalization Acts, violent crime, white-collar crime, fraud, and money laundering, among others. Moreover, Judge Baggé-Hernández litigated civil and criminal asset forfeiture cases on behalf of the United States and represented the United States in federal appellate court. In 2018, the United States Department of Justice Organized Crime and Gang Section selected Judge Baggé-Hernández for a "first of its kind" detail as a Resident Legal Advisor to the United States Embassy in San Salvador, El Salvador. Before that, Judge Baggé-Hernández served as an Assistant State Attorney in Hillsborough County, Florida. As a native Spanish speaker, Judge Baggé-Hernández has participated in many trainings given by the US Department of Justice's Office of Overseas Prosecutorial Development, Assistance, and Training (OPDAT) and the American Bar Association's Rule of Law Initiative, which involved traveling throughout Latin America and training lawyers, law enforcement, judges, and law students whose countries are transitioning from the inquisitorial system to the accusatorial system. Additionally, he has participated in various lectures, trainings, and talks to judges, law enforcement, law students, and lawyers, on various law-related topics. Judge Baggé-Hernández graduated from Florida State University in 2003, with a degree in International Affairs and Spanish, and earned his Juris Doctor in 2007 from Stetson University College of Law

Continental is pleased to sponsor the

Cuban American Bar Association's 2024 Judicial Forum & Luncheon

Continental emphatically supports an independent judiciary that understands that its province and duty is to say what the law is, not what it should be. We are proud advocates for the cause of freedom and democracy in Cuba and the United States.
